Security

Designed for Your Needs

Whether you are in charge of a retail location or warehouse, you have an obligation to secure your facility and protect your employees. Our Authorized Commercial Dealer will assess your needs and create a security system that's right for your business environment.

From hardwired to wireless, our systems incorporate the most sophisticated technology and are extremely easy to use. This ensures that employee training is kept to a minimum, saving money while securing your firm.

Fast, Reliable, Precise Protection

At the very core of the security system is central station monitoring. The security system can be monitored 24/7 by trained professionals. If an emergency occurs, the central station notifies the appropriate authority for a quick response.

For the ultimate security, take advantage of our AlarmNet® service. With AlarmNet, the alarm transmission path is enhanced and offers extensive coverage. Service is available that meets UL High-Line Security requirements for jewelry stores and banks. Whether you choose to communicate via radio, control channel cellular or the Internet, AlarmNet can help ensure that your alarm signal gets through.

TouchCenter: Our sleek, sophisticated Graphic User Interface

Honeywell has the widest selection of keypads in the industry. Our sensor line, wireless devices and emergency buttons can help protect employees from crime. Whatever system you select, it has the capacity to grow as your business grows.

Loss Prevention

Capture the Whole Picture

Video surveillance gives you the power to see exactly what is happening in your business. Concerned about your employees' integrity? With a cash register interface and a camera over the scene, you can see itemized details of every transaction to prevent overruns, underruns and sweetheart deals.

Even if you have the most reliable personnel, a camera system can help save lives. Acting as an effective deterrent to outside forces, video helps ensure employee safety. And if employees know they're being monitored, correct safety procedures will be followed on the warehouse floor.

Control Access and Improve Operations

An access control system is no longer a luxury item. In today's environment, it's important to know who is entering the building to protect employees and preserve operations.

A Honeywell system can be designed that protects everything from the single lobby door to dozens of entranceways around your facility. Restrict access to valuable assets and inventory based on job function, time and location.

In addition to loss prevention, Honeywell access control is a powerful management tool. With it, you can determine when employees enter and exit the building, manage temporary employees and visitors and control traffic flow. With a wide range of options, our systems can uncover problems you didn't know existed.

Remote Video Management

Use video as a management tool. With a remote video system, you can check in on your facility from the road using a laptop and an Internet connection. On site, a networked digital system offers the same capability and lets you view stored video from days, months or years ago, quickly and easily.

Fire Detection

Fire Does Not Discriminate

Fire is a devastating threat that can end lives and demolish profitability in seconds. To protect employees and your assets from this destructive force, select a Honeywell fire detection system engineered by our Authorized Commercial Dealer. From simple waterflow protection to intermediate and large fire control systems, our products comply with the most stringent fire codes and meet local and national standards.

Thousands of fires occur in offices every year, resulting in injuries, deaths and over $2.6 billion in direct property damage.

Early Detection When Seconds Count

Offering detailed information on the origin of the fire and type of alarm, a fire detection system will help firefighters quickly find the source of the blaze. A vital element in your security arsenal, it's especially important if you are offsite when an emergency occurs.

To protect your firm from all the forces against you, turn to someone you can trust:

A Honeywell Authorized Commercial Security Systems Dealer. By working together, we can create a system that keeps your business secure and profitable.
